Blockchain

Blockchain is a decentralized ledger where participants can confirm transactions without the need for a central authority.

Cryptocurrencies

Cryptocurrencies are a digital medium of exchange that have blockchain as their underlying technology – two of the most popular being Bitcoin and Ethereum. The fact the technology is decentralized is the main reason why no existing financial institution or government owns or manages Bitcoin.

LAURUS

HOW COMMON IS CRYPTO?

Share of respondents in selected countries who said that they used or owned cryptocurrency (2020)

Financial inclusion

Cryptocurrencies also allow people to earn interest off their assets. Through the growth of crypto innovations such as staking and decentralized finance (DeFi), anyone in the world can earn interest, otherwise known as “yield”, by holding and staking certain tokens. No intermediary is needed to complete the transaction.

In 2020 alone, the total value locked up in DeFi projects soared 300 times to roughly $21 billion.

Cryptocurrencies and blockchain technology, paired with the global growth of mobile and indeed internet adoption, are tempering rising financial inequalities.

And it is not inconceivable to imagine that in the coming decades, the world will have a much more democratized and accessible financial system. Financial inclusion could be achieved thanks to cryptocurrencies.

Crypto Wallet

A cryptocurrency wallet is a piece of software that keeps track of the secret keys used to digitally sign cryptocurrency transactions for distributed ledgers. Because those keys are the only way to prove ownership of digital assets and to execute transactions that transfer them or change them in some way they are a critical piece of the cryptocurrency ecosystem.

Type of Crypto wallet : There are two main types of crypto wallets: “Software and Hardware ” (also known as “Hot & Cold Storage wallets”, respectively).

- ✓ Hot storage wallets are accessible via an internet service.
- ✓ Cold storage wallets are downloaded and reside offline on a piece of hardware such as a USB drive or a smartphone.

What a crypto wallet does.? Not only does a crypto wallet (or more generically, a digital wallet) keep track of encryption keys used to digitally sign transactions, it also stores the address on a blockchain where a particular asset resides. If the owner loses that address, they essentially lose control over their digital money or other asset.
